SEVEN MEN KILLED.

A terrible boiler explosion took place in Force & Dickson's stove mill at St. Charles, a small village on the Kingston & St. Catharines railway, four miles from Comber, on Saturday, Sept. 17th, by which seven men were killed outright, two fatally injured, and about 20 more or less maimed. The particulars are as follows: About 6.30 a. m. the night watchman gave way to the regular engineer. At that time twenty-five pounds of steam was in the boiler which exploded. The fire was kindled and it was supposed that there were 80 pounds' pressure on the boiler at the time of the explosion. Fortunately the explosion of the hands was not great, owing to the earliness of the hour, or likely the fatalities would have been greater.

The scene is horrible in the extreme. Arms and limbs were literally torn from their bodies, while the skulls of the victims were crushed and the brains dashed out. Mrs. Abbott and Anderson, of Comber, were summoned, and did all in their power to relieve the wounded. These men are John Ewing, Michael Dupris, Joseph Papinian, Isaiah Chavira, Jerome Chavira (the last two brothers), W. J. McLean, and Miss Ouellette. J. Boone is fatally maimed.

The air is full of rumors regarding the explosion. Some contend that the boiler was old and unfit for use, while others say the mill says that the boiler was in good running order, but that he believes that the boiler was old and unfit for use. The boiler was carried fully 200 feet, passing in its flight a large residence, and the contents of other debris were carried in all directions, but the houses in the neighborhood escaped with a few broken windows. The boiler was a small locomotive boiler, and the others were all married, with families depending on their support.

THEY MUST NOT DIE.

It is simply an outrage to let young people die who are attacked with pulmonary troubles and incipient consumption, when the doctor's medicine is sent to the bottom of the sea. It should be shown from the house-tops that supposed incurable consumptives can be cured by the use of this extraordinary preparation. The rebuilding process commences in the system the moment the Emulsion is taken. It is curious to watch the effects upon the system of persons, who begin to fill out and make new blood as often as the Emulsion is administered. In an incredibly short time cadaverous looking people are again young and healthy. In big bottles, 50c. and $1. at all Drug Stores.

THE NEW SIAMESE TWINS.

The new Siamese Twins do not come from Siam. They were born in India, and the following description is sent to the Pictou Mail by a correspondent, who saw them the other day in Poonah. They are, to appear, we believe at the Bazaar, previous to their fulfilling their engagement at the World's Fair, Chicago. The names of the children are Radia and Dolly. The two little girls are three and a half years old, and are really pretty children. The peculiarity of their connection is that there is a flexible band attachment from breast to breast, and below this there are two other connections. There is only one navel. The children were born in a cave. If food is given to one the other is satisfied. The medicine is administered to one in the other is affected, but not to the same extent as the one to which it is given. The most curious circumstance about the children is that they are connected by one child the other frequently finishes it. When sleeping one child lies on her back and the other on her side, which gives an idea of the great flexibility of the connection. The children are very good friends, and seldom quarrel, but when younger their proceedings were not marked by that unanimity which they have since discovered to be essential to their circumstances. As might be expected, when their relation became strained there was considerable tension. A few years ago, when they were twelve, they were then, but when it gradually became strained, their infantile intelligence, when one was hurt the other had to cry out of sympathy. A mutual understanding was arrived at that all "rows" should be discontinued, and now bawling peace reigns supreme. For their age the twins are particularly intelligent. They have been taught English for the last three months, and although they do not speak more than a few simple words, they seem to understand it very well already. The twins have excited a good deal of attention among the medical profession in India, and there is little doubt that they will be welcomed by scientists no less than by the unscientific sightseer.

KEEP YOUR ROOM TIDY.

A look into a girl's room will give one an idea of what kind of a woman she will probably become. A girl who keeps her clothes hung up neatly, whose room is clean always, will be very apt to make a good wife and a successful woman. Order and neatness are essential to our comfort as well as to that of others about us. A girl who will throw down her clothes, and who does not care for dinner, and she should always make it her self rather than have a servant to do it, and who throws her dress and shoes on a chair, will make a poor wife in nine cases out of ten. If all the world could see how a girl who keeps her room tidy, and who keeps her clothes hung up neatly, and who keeps her room clean always, will be very apt to make a good wife and a successful woman. LOCAL ITEMS.

Ten freight cars were badly smashed in the Grand Trunk yard, Belleville, last Tuesday.

Mrs. Dalton's millinery opening takes place to-morrow, all the ladies of the town and district are invited.

It is probable that new game warden will be appointed in all parts of the lay district, the old officers being utterly useless.

While much has been done of late years to improve the road from Deseronto to Marysville, it is hoped that the road authorities will at an early day reduce the grade on several hills.

Mr. Dennis Hanley, of Read, places THE TRIBUNE and its readers under deep obligations by furnishing the interesting sketch of the history of the parish of St. Charles. It abounds with striking and interesting information.

The Day of Quilts fair will be held at Belleville from Sept. 27th to 29th. We wish it success though the directors have erred in not advertising it properly in this part of the county. They have forgotten that this is the age of printer's ink.

The Richelieu & Ontario Company's steamer Corinthian was burned on Tuesday afternoon just before leaving for the north. Smoke was first seen coming from the wood work near the smokestack, and the flames soon made headway.

Rev. R. J. Craig, M.A., attended a meeting of Kingston Presbytery which was held last Tuesday at Gananoque. The reports of members who visited mission stations were very satisfactory. His Grace Archbishop of Toronto will be appointed to superintend the missions of North Hastings at a salary of $800 and a free house. The home mission report was of a most encouraging character. The thanks of the Presbytery were given to Mr. Craig and his people for their kind hospitality. The next meeting will be held at Belleville on the third Tuesday in December.

Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of P. Slaven & Co., who open out in a few days in the west store of the new Baker block, Main street. This firm will carry a very large stock of dry goods of every description and will have millinery and dressmaking departments. Mr. P. Slaven is too well known in this district to need words of introduction. He formerly carried on a large business in Napanee where he was known as a merchant of integrity and great business tact and enterprise. His many friends in the lay district will look him up in his new location and find that he is prepared to give them the good bargains as formerly. This TRIBUNE welcomes him to Deseronto and wishes the local all success.

Salvation Army.
Lieutenant Oler of the local corps of the Salvation Army, bade farewell on Tuesday night and has left for Bath. She is succeeded by Lieutenant Bradford.

News.
Farmers in the district complain of being victimized by buyers of cattle, etc., who by doubling up one of the bank bills in a package in a peculiar way manage to have it counted twice, thus securing a fraud.

Fraternities Visit.
About twenty members of United Empire Lodge, Sons of England, chartered the steamer Deseronto and went up to Belleville to visit the brethren of the city lodge. They received a right royal welcome and were invited to an oyster supper before leaving for home. The Deserontians are loud in their praises of the grand old style in which they were treated by the Belleville brethren.

Illegal Measures.
Mr. Wm. Johnson, inspector of weights and measures has recently entered serious complaints against two grain threshing machines in the township of Ameliasburg being charged with wilfully diminishing two measures so as to take in measure one and a half to two bushels being taken off the lower rim, and the bottom reinserted, although they were stamped measure, while the other Ameliasburg had a false bottom in its measure.

Indian Picnic.
An old fashioned picnic will be held at the Mohawk Church, on Wednesday, Sept. 28th, under the auspices of the newly formed Canadian Indian Rights Association of Tynesburg Reserve. Everybody will be welcome to this happy event. Do not forget to bring a basketful of good things. There had for 25 cents by those who are not blessed with a wife or cousin to provide a basket. If it should happen to be a wet day the entertainment will be held at the council house. Proceeds of the picnic will be devoted to the funds of the society.

West End Mission.
The meeting to take into consideration the continuation of the West End Mission held in Union Hall last Friday evening was not largely attended but was of most interesting character. The Mayor occupied the chair. Addresses were given by Rev. J. A. Sinclair and Rev. J. J. Rice which were of a practical and encouraging character. The Chairman and several other gentlemen made brief addresses and the meeting concluded with the passage of a resolution pledging the meeting to do everything possible to advance the interests of the mission and the erection of a suitable chapel for the prosecution of its work. We learn that subscription lists have been circulated this week and that a liberal response has been made by people of all denominations. The erection of an edifice will be proceeded with this fall.

Federicksburg Ferry.
The steamer Alberta on the ferry route between Deseronto and Fredericksburg is giving complete satisfaction. It is steadily growing and the ferry is found a great convenience alike by people of town and country. The builder, Fredericksburg, and the Adolphus route are placed with the facilities which it affords for reaching Deseronto, the best market of the district, and they rejoice at the presence of fruit buyers, butchers and other business men of Deseronto who have already found their way to these townships. The route to Fredericksburg and Adolphus route which is easily reached by the new route. People of Fredericksburg and Adolphus who desire to visit Deseronto, Shannonsville, Belleville, etc., are now saved from eight to fifteen miles in making their journey to these points. In these days when time is money the ferry is a great convenience.

CHURCH DEDICATION AT READ.

The new Catholic Church of St. Charles Borromeo, at Read, was formally dedicated to the worship of Almighty God, last Sunday, by His Grace Archbishop Clary, of Kingston. His Grace, who was accompanied on this visitation by Right Rev. Mr. Farrelly, of Belleville, Vicar-General Gauthier, of Brockville, and Father Kelly, Archbishop's secretary, drove out from Belleville to Read on Friday, and were met on the way by Rev. Father McCarthy, of Read, and a number of his parishioners who took this way of welcoming His Grace to Northern Tynesburg.

The hour fixed for the ceremony of dedication was 10.30 a.m., but long before that hour the road and fields adjoining the new church were filled with signs of every description, and a vast multitude of visitors, not only from the different missions of Tynesburg and Richmond, but from Deseronto, Belleville, Napanee, Tweed, etc., were assembled to witness the proceedings of the eventful day. An arch of evergreens had been erected at the main entrance to the church ground, upon which was the inscription "Long live the Archbishop." About 11 o'clock the sacred edifice was cleared of all occupants, and the Archbishop and clergy formed in procession and compassed the exterior of the building repeating the prayer prescribed by the ritual of the church, His Grace sprinkling the walls with holy water. The Clergy then approached the main door when His Grace presented Mr. J. C. Corrigan and Dennis Hanley, representing the building committee, with a cheque for $200, his generous contribution to the building fund.

The procession then passed into the church where the same ceremony was repeated which had been performed outside. The doors were then opened and the vast congregation was then admitted. High mass was celebrated by very Rev. Vicar-General Gauthier, assisted by Father McCarthy and Kelly. The musical services were led by an excellent choir from Belleville. After mass the building committee presented His Grace Archbishop Clary with a complimentary address which was read by Mr. Dennis Hanley. His Grace congratulated the congregation on the successful completion of the work in which they had been engaged for some months. Since his arrival for the diocese 27 new churches had been erected and he seldom found people who had given more generously and spontaneously than those of Read. He had learned of their generosity and unity in connection with the St. Charles' mission, a fact which he attributed to the zeal of the people for the honor and glory of God. He had learned of their generosity and unity in connection with the St. Charles' mission, a fact which he attributed to the zeal of the people for the honor and glory of God. He had learned of their generosity and unity in connection with the St. Charles' mission, a fact which he attributed to the zeal of the people for the honor and glory of God.

After His Grace had finished his address a procession was formed to the old church and the blessed sacrament was removed from that venerable edifice to the new church. The procession was soon brought to a close with the Archbishop's benediction.

Rev. Father McCarthy and his attached flock must be congratulated on the completion of this handsome church, which would do credit to any of our large towns. It is a substantial proof of the zeal and identity of the people of northern Tynesburg.

DESCRIPTION OF THE CHURCH.
The church is a gothic structure, 120 feet long and 44 feet wide, with a nave and aisle, and an entrance through a neat porch. The bell tower is about 65 feet high finished with terra cotta. There is a well lighted basement 8 feet in the clear under the church for the furnace and fuel, the massive walls of which are built in coarse line stone and finished with a finely cut and heavily chamfered face course. The walls of the church are 18 inches thick built of red brick, and rimmed with Toronto white brick and the whole supported by substantial buttresses capped with finely cut limestone.

made of ash and beautifully finished. The kneeling stools are hinged to standards of steel which is a decided improvement on the old style, as they can be much more easily adjusted while sweeping and when replaced are always in their proper position, and are never tumbling and rolling on the floor to the annoyance of all present.

The building is heated with two furnaces.

Mr. Frank Dolan, of Belleville, was the contractor and when it was said that the building was made ready for the seats in less than four months some idea may be formed of the energy and ability he put into the work. Mr. Thomas Hanley, architect and contractor of Belleville, furnished the drawings and specifications and also executed the woodwork. Mr. Hanley must be congratulated on the good taste and skill which are everywhere evidenced in this beautiful temple of worship the work has certainly enhanced the excellent reputation which he has gained as an architect of more than provincial fame. Mr. William McGee, of the same city, did the galvanizing and iron work. Mr. Waller, of Napanee, placed the hot air furnaces, all of whom did their work in a most satisfactory manner. Messrs. Hains, Walton, Belleville, supplied the seats, and did an excellent job.

The total cost is about $15,000.

SKETCH OF THE HISTORY OF THE PARISH OF ST. CHARLES.

Previous to the year 1834 or 1835 all of the Township of Tynesburg north of the south range of the four concessions was still a wilderness, the home only of deer, wolves and other wild animals. It had been set aside by the government as a reserve for the Indians and was not thrown open for settlement by whites until about this time. The front of the township had been surveyed for a length of time was now all taken up and occupied by settlers. All intending settlers who arrived from the old country about the years above mentioned, or later, if they did not choose to go elsewhere were obliged to move on the newly surveyed portion of the township, and accordingly began to occupy the north range of the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th concessions. One of the first to settle in this part of the township was William Hanley, in the year 1835 who was followed in a few years later by his brothers, John and Dennis. Among the other pioneers who settled here about this time were James Meagher, Hugh and Bernard McGinness, Peter and Edward O'Reilly, Michael McDermott, John Lawrence, Patrick Kelly, Patrick Tighe, Patrick Ford, John Egan, Michael and James Culken, and on a concession or two north may be named the Nadin brothers, Darby, Bartley, Dominick, Martin, Harry, Patrick Sheeran, Michael Buckley, Thomas Shannon, James Walsh, John Walsh and James Gargan. Of those named there are now pressing for burial, namely, John Hanley, Thomas Shannon, Patrick Sheeran and Darby Nadin. For a number of years after this time the Roman Catholics of this portion of the township had no resident pastor, their spiritual wants being attended to by the then pastor of St. Mary's parish in the front of the township, the Rev. Charles Barky. Except to attend sick calls his visit to the northern portion of the township were of necessity, on account of the state of the roads, very few, and he could not be depended on more than once a month. As there was then no church here mass was celebrated on these occasions in a private house, generally at the residence of Mr. Charles Barky. But the greater number of these settlers were pious earnest christian men and women who wished to practise the religion they professed, which taught them to attend divine service when possible, and therefore, they did not think it too much trouble to journey Sunday after Sunday on foot to St. Mary's church in the front of the township, a distance, for most of them, of seven or eight miles. They had no horse to ride or drive and no rig to drive in, and if they had, there were no roads to drive on, or at best, only such as richly deserved the term then applied, "corduroy." On this journey they followed cowpaths through swamps and bogs, crossing Salmon river at Wynna's bridge and thence across the plains to the church. What a contrast to the present day! So many of the roads are now by telephone and so many not at all! About the years 1847 and 1848 it was decided by the few Catholics who were in the township to build a church, and a church and a building committee was appointed to look after the work. They were James Meagher, John Lally, John Hanley, Dennis Hanley and Thomas Shannon. They set to work and in a short time a frame church 50x30 feet in dimensions was built and though very plain in its structure and cost the people, particularly the committee, on account of their limited means and the state of the roads, or rather the absence of roads, a great effort to build it. It has cost the people at the present time to build the new one. The first resident pastor appointed to the parish of St. Charles was the late Rev. Thomas McMahon in the year 1854. He remained in charge about six years, when he was transferred to another with a view to strength and health. He pointed in his place. His pastorate extended over the long term of 21 years. It was during his charge that the present church residence was built. About this time this section of the township had acquired an unenviable reputation for intemperance and crime, and it was not until the late license act, or almost criminal negligence in the enforcement of its provisions on the part of those appointed to do so, certain it is that those who wished to open a shop and sell liquor without licence might do so with very little risk of detection or punishment. It is not at all surprising, therefore, that in this time in every concession one or more grogshops could be found where intoxicating liquors were dealt out at all hours, day and night, to young and old, carrying sorrow and misery to many a home, besides being a fruitful source of lawlessness and disorder. Some of the more thoughtful residents saw that if something could not be done to stem the evil tide it would overwhelm the whole community with its force. With this end in view a temperance society was organized here in the year 1873 with Mr. J. C. Hanley as president. In six months after starting it had a membership of 150, every member pledged not only to abstain from drinking intoxicating liquor himself, but also to abstain from offering liquor to, or buying it for, others. It is an axiom in commercial economy that the demand creates a supply, but as regards intoxicating drinks it is equally true that the supply creates a demand. To place liquor in unlimited quantities within reach of all, old and young, at all hours, in any community, will soon create an appetite, and therefore an increased demand for it, with the result of drunkenness and disorder. To show that this appetite in the people of this section was created, not inherently, we have only to point to the readiness with which a great number of those most addicted to drinking became members of the temperance society immediately after its organization. A year or two a hall was built, where the meetings of the society, concerts, musical and literary entertainments, debates, etc., were held, and occasionally, too, were opportunities given to those who enjoyed it, and they were legion — to "trip the light fantastic." These influences were not long at work when the liquor vendors found that their occupation was gone, and one by one the grogshops disappeared, till to-day, within the boundaries of this parish, which comprises an area of at least 65 square miles, there are even more places where intoxicating liquors are sold. It is a question if this can be said of any other community of equal size, and equally populous, outside of Scotch Act county, within the whole Dominion. Since the society was disbanded its work has been continued by the several pastors, whose influence has been sufficient to restrain the people, with few exceptions, from relapsing into their former intemperate habits. Rev. Father Brophy was succeeded by Rev. John R. Meade, who was transferred here from Morrisburg. He was a kindly, "charita ble" whole-souled Irishman, with a great love for the land of his birth and interest in its welfare. He was well advanced in years when appointed to the parish, and in about three years after his health began to fail, leaving him unable to attend to his duties. Rev. Thomas McCarthy was appointed to assist him, which he continued to do until Rev. Father Meade's death, when he succeeded him as pastor. McCarthy has accomplished much in the vigour and activity of youth and health, combined with earnestness and zeal and the hearty co-operation of his parishioners. Rev. Father McCarthy has been in charge of the parish in the comparatively short time he has been in charge than any of his predecessors, his crowning work being the erection of the new church. He may reasonably expect, and it is the hope of his people, that he has yet a long life of usefulness before him.

CHAPTER XXII.

In brusquely putting an end to Elie's attentions Anna's father had hoped to stifle a nascent affection, but it was already too late; his tardy precaution had precisely the opposite result.

While the two young people had been able to see and converse with each other their love, indulged, had remained a secret to themselves; they were not conscious of it, because no obstacle had been placed in the way of its development, and they had mistaken it for friendship. The passion, as like the waves of the sea—so long as they meet no obstacle in their course, and revealing their strength only when they dash against some rock.

When Elie and Anna could no longer meet they knew how to contrive that they would see each other. When the latter saw that De Beaucourt did not return she guessed easily that his absence was due to the fact that he was waiting for her.

This was for her a gratification as intoxicating as the unexpected. Youth is full of these charming sorrows, these well-springs of joy which gush forth spontaneously; there is a moment in which the young girl learns that she is beautiful; one in which the young man learns that he has genius; but it is only a moment, and the moments are so few in the life of the heart.

The first feelings of Elie and Anna when they had read their own hearts were of unalloyed happiness. If they had been together they would perhaps have guarded against and combated a love which might betray itself; but, thrown off their guard by their separation, they both gave themselves up to it without restraint; and it made this love the object of their silent hopes. Placed thus in the domain of reality it had none of those shocks to sustain which real life inflicts on the poetical emotion; it could grow freely in the poetic atmosphere of their dreams.

Elie had been faithful to his promise; he had not returned to the mill. But he was not so constant in his visits; he was constantly present to his thoughts; in order to avoid the risk of meeting her he sought her everywhere. And then passion will do what reason would not do; it will make us seek the very thing we are trying to avoid.

Severin must make a considerable payment, and notwithstanding all his efforts, he had not been able to collect the necessary sum. Hoping to find at Morlaix the means of completing it, he went there with Anna, whom he reproached himself with having too often alone at the mill; but all his efforts were fruitless; after enduring all the humiliations of a journey, he returned to the mill, and with her took the road back to Penhoët.

But his fruitless efforts had delayed him. It was long past nightfall; a storm was approaching from the sea, and the wind swept over the moors with a noise like that of the ocean. The rain fell in torrents, and the darkness was so fearful that Anna felt a dumb terror take possession of her. The rain fell in torrents, and the darkness was so fearful that Anna felt a dumb terror take possession of her.

She was beginning, however, to become accustomed to them, when suddenly the rain ceased, and the darkness was so fearful that Anna felt a dumb terror take possession of her. The rain fell in torrents, and the darkness was so fearful that Anna felt a dumb terror take possession of her.

those we have that it seems to us that they should be able to see to them.

Elie, told her of a journey to purchase new machinery which might complete her father's ruin, and expressed a lively desire to learn if his illness was serious enough to demand such a sacrifice.

The old servant assumed a knowing air and smiled with a look of intelligence. "I am sure," he said, "that your father would have nothing to fear if the Parisian left his uncle's house free forever."

Anna could not repress a movement of horror. "Make yourself easy," continued Marguerite with a mystic smile, "I am sure you will find your father's health improving every day, and I will soon bring you news of his recovery."

She settled her cap, raised the bill of her apron, put on her shawl, and took the road to the great factory.

Anna awaited her return, which was long delayed, with inexpressible anguish. When the old woman at last returned Anna had to endure the painful all the stratagems which she had employed to obtain information without seeming to ask for it.

"Well," she said, "the young girl at last, driven to desperation."

"Well, the poor sinner will do well to think of his son," responded Marguerite. "Is there no hope, then?"

"It is always possible for God to save a Christian," answered the old woman. "Did you hear what Mr. Dubois said?"

"He said he would return to-day."

"But he has not yet returned," said Anna. "He is always a time when the disease has the same name, and that is death," answered the old woman with the sententious manner habitual to the Breton peasant.

Anna waited to hear no more. She left her nurse and took refuge in her own room, where she threw herself on the bed, burying her face in the clothes to stifle her sobs.

After the first outbreak of grief, however, she reflected that it might be possible that the old woman exaggerated the danger, and she resolved to assure herself, at any price and at all hazards, whether this were so or not.

Once more controlling her grief, then she was preparing to go herself to the factory when Dubois entered. When she saw him she uttered a cry of joy.

THE CITY GROCERY.

When a man undertakes any enterprise he must have a just idea of its character, the amount of effort required, the effect of certain plans and dispositions, or disaster will overtake him. This is a truism.

And so, to have what can be called in truth a CITY GROCERY involves ideas. They are not exalted. They are not philosophical. They are not great enough to deserve a monument in Central Park or a free water supply by our liberal hearted Mayor, but they are very necessary, and I shall be delighted to give you the benefit of them by always keeping in stock a choice selection of

CRICKET MATCH.

The return cricket match between Napanee and Deseronto eleven took place in the presence of a large number of interesting spectators last Saturday on the grounds of the Deseronto club, and resulted in a decisive victory for the Deseronto by 36 runs. Deseronto went to the bat first and were retired for 49 runs in the first inning. Macleod, batled nobly, running up 18 before he was bowled out by Merritt; Allan secured 8 and Walker 6, and the others were sent out with small figures, but there was fortunately no collapse. Napanee in this inning bowled well and debilitated. Napanee followed but were retired in quick order, the bowling of Deseronto being most effective; G. Maybee got 7 for the visitors, but their score only reached 17. Deseronto again went to bat and secured 45 runs, of which Allan, who was now in good form, contributed 14 and not out, while Macleod kept up his reputation by scoring 12. Napanee again took the willows and were more successful than in the first inning, having 41 to their credit, of which F. Maybee contributed 10, the only double figures gained by Napanee during the match. The victory was thus in favor of Deseronto by 36 runs as mentioned above. Napanee was outbatted by Deseronto in this match. The visitors were effective in fielding and bowling.

SHOOTERS.

The crease was in a very fair condition. The new building is found a great convenience for such event.

Mr. H. R. Berard and Sheriff Prayn umpired the game to complete satisfaction.

The game was witnessed by a large number of spectators. The fair was out in force. The grounds presented quite a brilliant spectacle during the afternoon.

The local club entertained the visiting cricketers in their usual hospitable style. Macleod with thirty runs carried off the honors of the day. He is a steady cricketer.

Harrison, of Napanee team, a mere lad, was loudly cheered for his two run hit in the first inning.

Cricket is the best of games and it is gratifying to see it reviving in Deseronto as well as elsewhere.

Deseronto has come to the front this year as a cricketing town. The club will tackle Toronto next year.

The fielding of Deseronto was very good. The Napanee men showed skill in this department also.

Allan was in good form in the second inning and ran up 14 and not out.

Dalmadge is the prince of back stops. Allan gave a fine exhibition of bowling and Cole and Allan did their work well in this line.

Baines, of Napanee eleven, did execution with his excellent bowling and Merritt did well also as a bowler.

F. Maybee with 10 runs made the best showing for the visitors.

Deseronto has now the best eleven in the Bay district.

Brown as point could not be excelled. He knew his business.

Magie Pile Lotion excels every other remedy of its class in the following particulars, viz:

1. It acts on the system.
2. It is cheaper than any other in the market.
3. It is cleanly, leaving no stain on clothing or bedding.
4. It is more easily applied than any other.
5. It is equally efficient in external, internal, bleeding or itching piles.
6. It is an excellent dressing for all kinds of painful wounds, abrasions, stings of insects or bees, etc.

We can give you hundreds of names of persons who have been cured of piles by Magie Pile Lotion. 52c a bottle at W. J. Malley's and W. G. Eggar's.

Mr. T. Butler will at the close of navigation withdraw his attention from the fair attractions on the bay and endeavor to gain a further knowledge of medicine, his chosen profession.
